

Waygerz, Inc. — SMS Opt-In & Consent Flow

Waygerz uses passwordless phone sign-in. When someone enters their mobile number, we first check whether an account already exists. Existing users are sent a one-time sign-in code (they opted in to texts when they created their account). For a new number — someone creating an account — we send no text at all until they explicitly opt in: they are taken to a consent screen where they confirm their number and must check the SMS-consent box before anything is sent. Only after they check the box and tap "Agree & text me my code" is the first message (the one-time code) sent. Waygerz never texts a number that has not opted in.

Consent is collected on a single branded screen (below) that shows the phone-number input field, the explicit opt-in checkboxes, and the full disclosure together — message types (one-time sign-in codes and account & bet alerts), "Message frequency varies," "Message and data rates may apply," "Reply STOP to opt out, HELP for help," and links to our Terms of Service and Privacy Policy. A separate, optional checkbox covers promotional/marketing messages and is not required to use the service.

The Waygerz-branded entry screen (logo + "Waygerz" wordmark) headed "Sign in or create your account." It has a single mobile-number input field and a "Continue" button. Below: "We'll text you a one-time code to sign in — no password needed. New here? This creates your account and we'll confirm your text consent first." This is the shared entry point for both returning sign-in and new sign-up; no message is sent from this screen — tapping Continue only looks up whether the number already has an account.

The image is a screenshot of a web browser displaying the Waygerz login/registration page. The browser's address bar shows the URL <https://waygerz.com/login>. The page has a dark background. In the center, there is a white rounded rectangle containing the Waygerz logo (a stylized 'W' with a green arrow pointing up and to the right) and the word "Waygerz" in a bold, sans-serif font. Below the logo, the text "Sign in or create your account" is displayed. Underneath this text is a white input field containing the phone number "(904) 239-8222". Below the input field is a large, rounded rectangular button with a blue gradient and the word "Continue" in white. At the bottom of the white rectangle, there is a line of small text: "We'll text you a one-time code to sign in — no password needed. New here? This creates your account and we'll confirm your text consent first."

The branded consent screen shown to a new number, headed "Create your account" with the subtext "Agree to receive texts and we'll send your sign-in code." It shows, together on one screen: the phone-number input field (pre-filled with the entered number), and a bordered box with two explicit consent checkboxes. The first (checked in the screenshot) reads: "I agree to receive text messages from Waygerz at this number — including one-time sign-in codes and account & bet alerts (challenges, results, and reminders). Message frequency varies. Message and data rates may apply. Reply STOP to opt out, HELP for help, or email support@waygerz.com." The second (unchecked) is an optional marketing opt-in that states consent is not a condition of using Waygerz. Beneath the box: "By continuing you also agree to our Terms and Privacy Policy" (both linked). The primary "Agree & text me my code" button is disabled until the required box is checked — so the one-time code is not sent until the user has affirmatively opted in.

Headed "Check your phone," this screen confirms "We sent a 6-digit code to [number]," with a 6-digit code field, a "Continue" button, and a "Use a different number" option. This step is reached only after consent (image 2). Note: live SMS delivery activates once this toll-free number is verified; during testing the code is displayed on-screen (shown in the dashed box) rather than texted.

Marked "Step 1 of 2," headed "What should we call you?", with a display-name field ("This is the name your teammates will see") and a "Next" button. First step of finishing a new account, after the code is confirmed.

The screenshot shows a web browser window with the Waygerz logo and the text "STEP 1 OF 2". The main heading is "What should we call you?". Below this is a text input field containing the name "Alex". A small note below the field states "This is the name your teammates will see." At the bottom of the form is a blue "Next" button. The browser's address bar shows "https://waygerz.com/login".

Image 5 — Terms & Privacy acceptance (img5)

Marked "Step 2 of 2," headed "Agree to continue" / "Please accept both to create your account." Two required checkboxes — "I agree to the Terms of Service" and "I agree to the Privacy Policy" (both linked) — and a "Create my account" button. The account is not created until both are accepted.

The screenshot shows a web browser window with the Waygerz logo and the URL <https://waygerz.com/login>. The page is titled "STEP 2 OF 2" and "Agree to continue". Below the title, it says "Please accept both to create your account." There are two checkboxes, both of which are checked: "I agree to the Terms of Service." and "I agree to the Privacy Policy." At the bottom, there is a "← Back" link and a "Create my account" button.
